uh so some random guy 20 minutes made a SOL memecoin called SMIRA to help with research fundraising and sent me half the entire supply and it's now worth like $400K and i literally don't know what to do because i certainly don't want to rug a bunch of random people

Replying to @blader

oh man people are really opinionated about their chains.

by popular request, here are SOL and BTC addresses as well:

so after a few minutes of thought, here's what i plan on doing:

i intend to i sell 10% of my supply some time today to contribute to Hankinson Lab and hold the rest, that comes out to 5% of total supply.

i will not sell anything more without announcing 24 hours in advance.

liquidated 10%.

thanks to the SOL community for $49,263 contributed to hankinson lab.

if it tanks, i'm ok - i don't want to be the one to rug folks.

if it moons, i'll announce more liquidations 24 hours in advance to support the lab further.

thank you - this is pure magic.
